Con Corazón Outreach Report

22th September 2022 – Marampaqui

Among other reasons, we decided to support covering this gap by hiring teacher Nelly Quispe to help children with their homework after school. She makes sure that their homework is done and also help them writing and reading out loud. She said “The kids struggle especially when reading because they do not practice enough and the rest laugh at them”.

One of the projects we have been supporting is education. In coordination with the school principal, we want to help teachers achieve better results in terms of the education they provide. They shared with us that the children have a hard time doing their homework. There are many reasons for that, including:

- Parents are not able to keep up with the topics given. Most of them have not received a proper education.
- After school, the children must go to help their parents in the agricultural activities and also herd the animals. Therefore, they do not have time for homework.
- Children's malnutrition prevents them from concentrating at school or at home.
- Children do not like to do homework

Among other reasons, we decided to help fill this gap by hiring teacher Nelly Quispe to help the children with their homework after school. She makes sure their homework is done and also helps them write and read aloud. She said: " “Children have difficulty especially when they read. Since they don't do it well, the rest of the children laugh at whoever reads. This happens to almost everyone."
