Con Corazón Outreach Report

16th Sept 2024 – Marampaqui

Volunteers do important work in our organization. Thanks to them we can distribute the rest of the staff to different areas where they are also needed. This way we can see more patients and provide them with better quality of medical and dental care.

Ymke Hollemans is a student at the Université de Libre de Bruxelles, Belgium. She is pursuing a Master's degree in population and development studies. She has no experience as a dental assistant, however she learned this skill well in a short period of time. She is also in charge of giving nutrition and health talks in the two schools where we intervene. In addition, he is developing his own research under the supervision of his university.
