Con Corazón Outreach Report

22nd May 2025 – Marampaqui

Manu Hanne, a dental hygienist from Switzerland and instructor at a dental assistant school in Zurich, volunteered with Con Corazón and made a meaningful impact during her time with us in Cusco, Peru. Her visit brought not only professional clinical care but also valuable educational input to our team.

Manu provided dental cleanings to patients in both our urban dental clinic in Cusco and the rural medical center in the village of Marampaqui. Experiencing both environments allowed her to witness the contrasts in access, infrastructure, and patient needs. Despite the differences, Manu's approach remained compassionate, efficient, and centered on improving the oral health of every patient she encountered.

In addition to her clinical work, Manu generously shared her knowledge about hygiene and infection control within dental facilities. She offered us clear and practical recommendations to improve our sterilization processes, surface disinfection, and overall cleanliness. Her insights were well-received by our team, and we promptly implemented all her suggestions. We are deeply grateful for her time and expertise, and we hope to continue collaborating with her in the future as part of our mission to provide quality dental care in underserved areas.
